

tained breathing apparatus shall be provided and personnel trained in the proper operational procedures. The breathing apparatus shall be compatible with the materials stored and located near the immediate area of storage in a location providing safety to users of the apparatus. A safe area is a location that will not be immediately affected by the release of hazardous vapors in the area of concern. Breathing apparatus shall not be required in storage areas or structures where storage is continually limited to materials demonstrated not to present respiratory dangers.